

Criminal Justice, Research and Event Planning

OAKLAND, CA

Undergraduate and Graduate Internships

Available beginning Spring 2015 and Fall 2015

Graduate 1st and 2nd year students

The Jeweld Legacy Group is dedicated to improving the lives of people and communities impacted by the criminal justice system by assisting agencies and institutions and providing data and research that informs programs and policies. We offer a range of technical assistance, meeting facilitation, training and consultation that builds the capacity of our clients to achieve win/win results. Our interns will work 10-24 hours per week, for 6-12 months in our Oakland office and virtually, on a variety of tasks that range for focus groups, data entry and analysis, literature reviews, coalition building, meeting preparation and facilitation and social marketing. Below are a few of our current projects:

- 15 year study on adult children of incarcerated parents
- Children of Probationers: A Data Report
- Project ENABLE: A Capacity Model
- County and Statewide Policy Initiative, Children (families) with Justice Involved Parents
- Developing a Economic Equity Model for Citizens Returning from Prison

We are looking for graduate level interns who are interested in social and criminal justice, policy reform, research and marketing. Interns should be curious about various aspects of operating a developing business that serves the state and national criminal justice communities. Coursework in social work, criminal justice, child development, marketing and/or event planning are encouraged. Interns who bring initiative, creativity, attention to details and independence are welcome to apply.

Undergraduate students

The Jeweld Legacy Group is dedicated to improving the lives of people and communities impacted by the criminal justice system by assisting agencies and institutions and providing data and research that informs programs and policies. We offer a range of technical assistance, meeting facilitation, training and consultation that builds the capacity of our clients to achieve win/win results. Our interns will work 10-24 hours per week, for 6-12 months in our Oakland office and virtually, on a variety of tasks that range for focus groups, data entry and analysis, literature reviews, coalition building, meeting preparation and facilitation and social marketing. Below are a few of our current projects:

- 15 year study on adult children of incarcerated parents
- Children of Probationers: A Data Report
- Project ENABLE: A Capacity Model
- County and Statewide Policy Initiative, Children (families) with Justice Involved Parents
- Developing a Economic Equity Model for Citizens Returning from Prison

We are looking for graduate level interns who are interested in social and criminal justice, policy reform, research and marketing. Interns should be curious about various aspects of operating a developing business that serves the state and national criminal justice communities. Coursework in social work, criminal justice, child development, marketing and/or event planning are preferred. Interns who bring initiative, creativity, attention to details and independence are welcome to apply.